Blessed Among Us

St. Blaise
 (ca. 316)

Of the actual deeds of St. Blaise, little is known. The bishop of Sebastea in Armenia, he died as a martyr during a wave of persecution under the emperor Diocletian. His feast, however, is marked by one of the most popular Catholic devotions: the blessing of throats with lighted tapers. This practice combines features of two stories about the saint's life: one in which he healed a young boy with a fishbone stuck in his throat, and another in which a woman, visiting him in prison before his death, brought lighted candles to brighten the gloom of his cell.

St. Blaise is also remembered for his kindness to animals. For some time he escaped persecution by hiding in a cave which he shared with a number of wild creatures. After he had healed them of all their ailments they gladly accepted his blessing and offered him company and protection. Even after his arrest, his solicitude for animals continued. While in custody and on his way to prison, Blaise encountered a woman whose pig had been carried off by a wolf. At her request, he ordered the wolf to release its prey, and the pig and its owner were happily reunited.

"Through the intercession of St. Blaise, bishop and martyr, may God deliver you from every disease of the throat and from every other illness."—Blessing for the feast of St. Blaise
