Gospel Reflection:

Not the idle and feckless but those who ask, seek and knock will receive, find, and have the door opened to them. We must therefore ask for entry into the kingdom by prayer, seek it by upright living, and knock at its door by perseverance. Merely to ask verbally is not enough; we must also diligently seek to discover how to live so as to be worthy of obtaining what we ask for

If we would know what the Lord wishes us to ask for, let us listen to the gospel text; Seek first the kingdom of God and its justice, and all these other things will be given you as well (Matt. 6:33)

To ask God for justice of his kingdom is to ask principally for faith, hope, and love. These virtues above all we should strive to obtain, for Scripture says: The upright live by faith; mercy surrounds those who hope in the Lord; and To love is to fulfill the law, for the whole law is summed up in one word; You shall love your neighbor as yourself. And so the Lord graciously promises that the Father will give the good Spirit to those ask him, in order to show that those who of themselves are evil can become good by receiving the grace of the Spirit. He promises the good Spirit will be given by the Father because whether it is faith, hope, or any other virtue we desire to obtain, we shall do so only through the grace of the Holy Spirit.

As we do our best, then, to follow in our Lord's footsteps, let us ask God the Father for the grace of his Spirit to lead us along the path of that true faith which works through love.

- St. Bede the Venerable

Holy Father's Prayer Intentions for the Year of Mercy

Universal: That indigenous peoples, whose identity and very existence are threatened, will be shown due respect.

Evangelization: That the Church in Latin America and the Caribbean, by means of her mission to the continent, may announce the Gospel with renewed vigor and enthusiasm.

Venerable Nelson Baker (1842-1936)

The second of four sons, Nelson Henry Baker was born in Buffalo, N.Y., on Feb. 16, 1842. His German Lutheran father ran a grocery store and instilled in him a keen business sense. His mother, an Irish Catholic, nurtured his love of Christ and the Church.

A bright student, Baker worked in his father's store following graduation before serving in the 74th New York Regiment during the Civil War. He started a feed and grain business with a friend in 1863, and in the years that followed, he supported a local orphanage and began to consider a religious vocation.

In 1869, at age 27, Baker entered Our Lady of Angels Seminary in Buffalo. One of his fellow seminarians was 19 year old Michael J. McGivney, who studied there 1871. During a pilgrimage in 1874, Baker's visit to the Shrine of Notre Dame des Victories in Paris sparked a lifelong devotion to Mary under her title Our Lady of Victory.

Two years later, Father Baker was ordained a priest and assigned to a debt-ridden parish and orphanage in Lackawanna, N.Y., outside of Buffalo. He was made superintendent there in 1882 and repaid the debt by creating a nationwide fundraising initiative called the Association of Our Lady of Victory. Over the next 55 years, he founded an array of institutions working boys and girls' homes, a trade school, a home for infants and unwed mothers and a maternity hospital. During the depression, his "city of charity" fed 1,000 people a day, and he became known as the "Padre of the Poor."

From 1921-26, Msgr. Baker oversaw the construction of the Basilica of Our Lady of Victory in Lackawanna. He died July 29, 1936 at age 95, and a half million people attended his funeral. He was declared Venerable in 2011.
